Why Offer a Benchmarking Service?

There are two main reasons why you should offer a business benchmarking - There is a real demand plus it's a great tool for business development and client retention.

Recent surveys have found:

- 75% of SMEs are looking for advice on profitability and performance. (SME Research)
- 45% of SMEs are willing to pay up to $2,000 for profitability advice. (SME Research)
- Companies who measure business performance against their peers achieve 69% faster growth and 45% greater productivity over those who don't. (Pricewaterhouse Coopers 'Trendsetter Barometer' Survey)
- Benchmarking reports provide a real incentive for business owners to work on different areas in their business as they are being measured against their peers or competitors. (Pricewaterhouse Coopers 'Trendsetter Barometer' Survey)

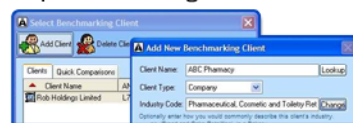

Because Acclipse BenchmarkIT reports provide hard statistics, they help crystallise where your clients can improve and where priorities lie. This information almost always leads to additional consulting work with your clients to help them develop plans to improve their business.
